

Sorting Adverbials

1. Read the sentences.
2. Highlight the adverbials. These often begin with a participle (walking, looking, etc.) or a preposition (in, with, from)
3. Sort them into time, place or order adverbials. You will need to DISCUSS each one – they are not easy!
4. Challenge – choose a sentence and develop the point further, giving reasons for this statement. Then choose another.*

Travelling on a train or bus, other peoples' loud music can be very irritating.	At school, children should be able to wear the clothes in which they feel most comfortable.
Secondly, walking to school is a way of getting exercise for the whole family.	In the past it was thought that girls and boys should learn different subjects at school because they were expected to do different jobs as adults.
Wanting an affordable snack, many children are likely to choose a cheap and unhealthy burger or packet of crisps.	Lastly, eating meat is not as healthy as eating a plant-based diet.
Firstly, keeping birds in a cage is a cruel way to treat them.	After school, the last thing children should be doing is sitting down and playing computer games.
Out of the house, children can run and jump and play, whereas doing homework inside stops children from being active.	Walking home from school, a mobile phone would be useful so children can tell their parents if they are going to be late.
On non-uniform days, children feel a lot of pressure to wear fashionable clothes.	Fourthly, if someone can leave their home at the age of 16, surely they should be able to drive a car.
